From Research to Practice

New insights into MFL learning and teaching in the primary and secondary phases

In conjunction with the Centre for Applied Research and Outreach in Language Education (CAROLE), University of Greenwich and Goldsmiths, University of London.

A cross phase conference to celebrate the culmination of an exciting MFL project funded by the London Schools Excellence Fund and led by RG TSA, with the University of Greenwich and Goldsmiths, which:

- gave secondary teachers the opportunity to reflect on the findings of research in second language acquisition and the implications for the classroom
- strengthened primary teachers' confidence and expertise to teach Languages in the Key Stage 2 classroom
- provided a cross phase forum to focus on transition issues

Key Note speakers:

Dr Colin Christie: Lecturer in Languages in Education and subject leader for the PGCE Languages course, Institute of Education, University of London: "Speaking spontaneously in the MFL classroom"
